

Leah Schreiber
Biography

Leah Schreiber attended Illionis State University from 1997-2002 where she received her Bachelor of Fine Art with a focus in painting, as well as multiple awards including the School of Art Tuition Waver and the MJ Scholarship/Grant. Her work, invested in her relationship with feminism, gained attention from the Women's Studies Department, resulting in Schreiber's participation as a presenter at the 2002 Women's Studies Symposium. In 2002, she was awarded with a Marshall Frankel Foundation Fellowship, and was recently a resident at The Contemporary Artist Center in North Adams, Massachusetts. From 2002-2007, Schreiber worked as the Technical Director of the Children's Program as well as an instructor at Lillstreet Art Center in Chicago. In addition to her work at Lillstreet, she was an Artist-Teacher at The Marwen Foundation and has been a guest artist in multiple Chicago Public Schools.

Schreiber holds an active exhibition record including shows in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Arkansas, Pennsylvania, and Vermont. Currently residing in Milwaukee, she attends The University of Wisconsin, working toward her MFA in Painting.
