

In response to questions concerning my training and schooling etc. I am, for lack of a better term, self-taught...Influences have ranged from the iconography of Roman Catholicism to the collages of Max Ernst, the constructions of Joseph Cornell and the visionary art of Henry Darger. I prefer that the work in question speaks for itself in its own voice without being burdened with autobiographical and or didactic references.